

News from the Kites

It barely seems possible that we are approaching the summer holidays already. The last five weeks have flown by! We are thrilled to be remaining as a class for another year. I'm sure that your children will continue to amaze and surprise us in the coming months.

Our term began with a visit from three undergraduates from America who were studying at the Fairleigh Dickinson College. The children bombarded them with seemingly endless questions, including their opinions on the new president and whether they voted for him!

They astounded us with much they knew about the election so we held our own student version. They spent the morning reading simplified manifestos before casting the vote at the ballot box. Most had clear views on who they were voting for whilst others agonised for over twenty minutes. Some even stayed up that night to see if 'their party' had won. As you can imagine, the results were hotly debated the next day.

We've been fiercely competitive in our preparations for Sports Day, despite all of the unpredictable weather, and we hope that all of their hard work and effort will pay off. Make sure that you come along and cheer them on.

Thank you again to those who have supported their children in making projects related to our topic. This batch has been the most surprising yet!

Wishing you a sun-filled summer,
Mrs Blunden, Mrs Danridge and Mr Hickman
